

The Skin Cancer College of Australia & New Zealand (SCCANZ), is the peak body representing and supporting primary care management of skin cancer. Our vision as a College is to deliver membership value through professional education and training, quality standards, professional advocacy and commitment to research with the goal of increased prevention and reduction of skin cancer in Australian and New Zealand.

SCCANZ is the largest primary care skin cancer group in Australasia. SCCANZ evolved from the Skin Cancer Society of Australia (SCSA) which was formed in 2005 out of a recognised need for high quality primary care skin cancer training.

SCSA was responsible for the unprecedented growth in world-class skin cancer training courses. In March 2009 SCCANZ was incorporated and is now an internationally recognised College, boasting a new expanded training programme, planned "Primary Care Skin Cancer Practice Accreditation", a comprehensive Fellowship pathway, an outstanding daily case discussion "Skin Cancer Blog" and a world class online surgical audit programme.

SCCANZ also runs workshop events and a conference annually. These boast national and international speakers and programs which focus on practical training workshops and sessions on skin cancer medicine and surgery.
